Hi Josh,

Thanks for setting up the time with Chief Moore on Monday.

As for the African American recruiting story, I'm trying to set up time with Vic Davalos, which should have me set on command staff, unless of course the chief wants to weigh in.

A few other notes I'd like to hit:

1. New black recruits, either at graduation or at the Academy, to ask them why they joined LAPD and whether they've gotten any blowback from friends and family.
2. Black officers on patrol in South LA, to ask why they joined and to see what reactions they get from the community.
3. Attend a recruiting event, to see LAPD recruiters in action and to see why young people may or may not be interested.

I've mentioned (2) and (3) to the people I've interviewed, since they might be able to connect me. Any help on your end would be great. Thanks!

Hi Josh,

As I mentioned, I'm resuming the story about vehicle stop data that I interviewed Arif about a few months ago.

With the help of a data journalist, I analyzed the city open source data through June 30 and found some interesting trends specific to stops made by Metropolitan Division. As you know, the LAPD is already collecting stop data pursuant to the new state law. But it's still worth looking at patterns in the prior data.

I'd like to interview the following people. I'm a bit reluctant to share our results over email, as you never know how far things will get forwarded, but I'll certainly work with you to make sure everyone has what they need to prep for the meeting. Please let me know if you have any questions.

1. Chief Moore

2. Someone from Metro

3. Someone who is knowledgeable about the raw data and can explain its finer points, so we can make sure our analysis is based on the right assumptions.

Subject: Speaking to experts at LAPD on body cam & officer personnel file issues?

Hi Josh,

Maya here at the L.A. Times.

I'm working on a story about two bills that are in front of Gov. Brown: AB 748, which would require law enforcement to release video or audio recordings w/in 45 days of a critical incident, and SB 1421, which would make public officer personnel files relating to shootings, serious uses of forces and some findings of serious officer misconduct.

Could I speak to someone at LAPD about any preparations they're making or any steps they are anticipating in order to handle requests if AB 748 is passed? In a nutshell, that bill would:

- Require law enforcement to release video or audio recording of a critical incident (shooting, use of force resulting in death or great bodily injury) within 45 days
- The release could be delayed if releasing it would substantially interfere w/ an investigation

How different is this from the LAPD's current practice (or policy?) of releasing some body cam videos?

Also, could I speak to someone at LAPD about any preparations they're making or any steps they are anticipating in order to handle requests if SB 1421 is passed? In a nutshell, that bill would:

- Make public officer personnel files (inc. the report, investigation & finding) of incidents involving discharge of firearm at a person by an officer; incident in which use of force resulted in death or great bodily injury; Incident in which sustained finding made by law enforcement OR oversight agency that officer engaged in sexual assault involving member of public; Incident in which sustained finding made into dishonesty; perjury; false report; destruction; or concealing of evidence
- Make some civilian complaints public, if not deemed to be frivolous

I'd like to have these conversations by end of day Thursday. My cell is [REDACTED]

I really appreciate all your help,
Maya

Subject: North Hills OIS critical-incident video

Hi Josh, do you have an update on the officer who was injured in this North Hills OIS that LAPD released video of today? Is she back on patrol?

Also, just to confirm, she was shot once in the leg?

Do you know if Chief Moore is going to release a statement on this or if he's going to talk about it at the commission meeting tomorrow?

Thanks,
